"Resurrection" at the Park. The Holden Stock Company is on its last week at the Park, and is for three days repeating one of its earlier plays, "Resurrection." It is the same play pitched to the tone of a popular melodrama without apparent change in the cast of players, and it was greeted last night by an audience of gener us size. Count Lee Tolstoi, who wrote; the book from which the play is taken might think he was seeing something new were he to follow the dramatization of his story, for it touches the plot only in the high places, glossing over much of the imme ality which ran through Tolstoi's mind when he wrote it. Berrice Howard, in the character of Russian peasant girl, who is betrayed by a royr! lover, has a clear idea of Katusha. who she was and what she did throughout her worthless life, and George D. Mackey, in the role of her royal betrayer, was every inch the military man he impersonated, and particularly intense as he followed Katusha to Silveria to right his youthful follies. The e was no shirking on the part of others in the company. Most of them assumod dual roles, including John A. Preston, John F. Bailey, Jack Ward Kett and Jack F. White. There is not a glint of humor in the story as it left Tolstoi's hands, but there is plenty of it as one sees it at the Park, most of it being developed en, was joined in marriage Sunday afterby Fritz Boone. The women of the company are painstaking and clever in their support, Miss Maud Holden taking the part of Majam Ivanova with becoming dignity. and other characters being in the hands of Miss Lottie Emmons, Miss Nell Holland and little Alice Berry. The company holds the play to the scenic standard which marks dits earlier production. On Thursday

NEWLY BORN BABE LEFT ON ASHLAND-AVE. PORCH Largest Stock Shoes

A baby but a few hours old, still in a critical condition, was left on the porch at the home of F. E. Floyd, 1730 Ashland avenue, at 10 o'clock last night. The baby was wrapped in a piece of soiled linen, and other than this had absolutely no covering. Members of the family were seated within the house when a noise was heard upon the porch. Mr. Floyd, investigating, found a basket, which contained the baby. The police were notified and conveyed the child joy out of your work is to do it well, and divided into two equal sides. One of the to the Orphans' Home. It is thought that Mr. Floyd's home was mistaken for that of R. T. Reagin, 1728 Ashland avenue, who is superintendent of the Indiana Children's Home Society.

of soft lace, that fall over the cuffs, make a noteworthy feature and are both graceful and eminently becoming. The waist is made with a fitted lining that is closed at the center front. On this lining are arranged the tucked back and fronts and the narrow vest, the closing being made invisibly beneath the revers at the left side of the front. The yoke is fitted by means of shoulder seams and is arranged over the whole, its edges being concealed by the revers. The sleeves consist of tucked portions and circular frills. which are finished with straight frills of lace, and are arranged over the linings and

ADSCRIPT CLUB HAS TWO NEW MEMBERS

Two new members were admitted to the Adscript Club at last night's meeting-A. L. Block, of the Eagle Clothing Company, and Harry Hahn, of the National Furniture Company. The meeting was held in the Merchants' Association rooms, and thirtyfive members, nearly the full quota, were present. Much interest was taken in the discussion of a paper by E. C. Ropkey on "A Successful Business Without Advertising." The discussion showed that all successful retail houses must advertise in one way or another. A committee was appointed to arrange for a trolley outing next week. The subject for the discussion at the meeting on June 20 will be "The Most Extraordinary in Advertising." Each member will relate his experiences along
